Victoria Lane Collection Debuts a New Wing-Arm Bed and Braided-Arm Bench at Fall High Point Market 2026

Shown for the first time at O & Company's new showroom, in partnership with RhenOvations Studio, 106 W. MLK Jr. Drive, Oct. 17–21

HIGH POINT, N.C. — Oct. 12, 2026 — O & Company Interiors will introduce two new pieces from its Victoria Lane Collection at Fall High Point Market 2026: a wing-arm bed with a hand-braided headboard and a bench now framed by hand-braided arms. Both debut at the company's new showroom, presented in partnership with RhenOvations Studio at 106 W. MLK Jr. Drive, during Market, Oct. 17–21, with the showroom open to the trade through Nov. 2.

At the heart of Victoria Lane is the braid. For thousands of years, braids have carried meaning — status, identity, community — with roots deep in African tradition and a reach across civilizations. Founder and principal designer Okeatta Brown brings that tradition into furniture through a signature hand-braided motif, worked across sculptural upholstered forms and protected by pending U.S. design patents.

The collection carries the name of Brown's mother and great-great-grandmother, the women whose strength and grace shaped her eye as a designer. Victoria Lane first launched at High Point Market in April 2025. This fall, it returns with two pieces that extend the braid in new directions.

The Wing-Arm Bed. Stately, tailored and architectural, the new bed is a counterpart to the curved original Victoria Lane bed, which remains in the collection. Its 72-inch headboard rises between tall, squared wing arms with clean, upright lines. A column of hand-braided detail runs down the center of the headboard and repeats on the 24-inch footboard, so the braid reads from every side of the room. The bed measures 84 inches wide and 89 inches long overall.

The Bench, Now With Arms. The Victoria Lane bench keeps its 48-inch seat and gains two 6-inch hand-braided arms, each with a slightly flared silhouette that eases into the seat. Set on turned legs, it measures 60 inches long, 24 inches deep and 22 inches high — sized for the foot of a bed, an entry or a gallery wall.

“The braid has always been about connection — to the women before me and to the stories we carry forward. With these two pieces, I wanted the braid to hold you: framing the headboard, wrapping the arms of the bench. A braid is something you make with your hands, for someone you love. That’s what this furniture is.” — Okeatta Brown, Founder and Principal Designer, O & Company Interiors

Both pieces are offered in a curated range of colorways, shown in the Victoria Lane Trade Lookbook at simplebooklet.com/oandcompanylookbook. Designers, hospitality buyers and retail partners are invited to see the full collection in person at the new showroom during Market. Showroom appointments can be booked at hello@oandcointeriors.com.
